Assertion of claims

For my work as a courier, the use of a smartphone and a telephony and internet data tariff (With a volume of 200 minutes and 2GB per month) is a necessary requirement.

Since the beginning of my employment relationship, I have been demonstrably expected to provide my own smartphone and telephony and internet data tariff and other accessories (energy storage, charging cable, protective cover, holder and headset) for the performance of my work. This is done without reasonable, contractually regulated compensation.

Furthermore, in order to perform the work, it is usually necessary to operate the smartphone with intensive use of functions that consume a lot of energy. Especially the "booking tool" (Scoober) with "tracking function" requires the intensive continuous operation of these functions. These functions include, among others: Display (= most energy consumption), navigation (telephone / GPS/ wLAN / Bluetooth / loudspeaker), Internet data, telecommunications.

At low temperatures, the performance of energy storage devices drops sharply. In order to use the functions required for work for more than 3 hours (minimum shift duration), it is usually necessary to charge the smartphone with an external energy storage device ("battery pack"). This requires charging cables, which have to be replaced frequently because they wear out quickly.

In order to use a mobile smartphone safely in different weather conditions, protective covers (against water and shocks), holders for vehicles (bicycle, scooter or car) and hands-free systems or headsets are necessary. These necessary work tools also need to be replaced frequently due to the nature of the work.

As a permanent employee, I am entitled to be provided with all the equipment necessary to perform my work or to be adequately compensated for equipment provided by myself but used for official purposes.

Neither of these has happened so far.

Assertion of claims: work equipment
(Smartphone, Minutes, Dataplan and accessories)

There should be an obligation by a contract of service (§611 BGB).

I claim the following:

1) Service smartphone and telephony and internet data tariff and necessary accessories.

As of today, a provided service smartphone and a provided telephony and internet data tariff (with a volume of 200 minutes and 2GB per month). In addition, I request the provision of further accessories (external energy storage, charging cable, protective case, cradle and headset).

2) Reasonable cost coverage / compensation for the use of my private smartphone and telephony and internet data tariff and accessories.

Since the beginning of my employment relationship an assumption of costs / compensation for the use of my private smartphone and internet data tariff for official purposes in the amount of 20 euros per month. In addition, an assumption of costs / compensation for the use of the following private accessories in the amount of 10 euros per month.
